A PATH Intl. Premier Accredited Center within the center's five year accreditation term that does not renew its center membership before the end of the 90-day membership grace period (per the Membership Grace Period Policy available on the PATH Intl. website) and thus has an expired membership must:

1. Rejoin the association
2. Follow a reinstatement process for accreditation

Time Past Membership Expiration	Reinstatement Fee (as of 7/1/2011)	Reinstate Accreditation Status

Centers that rejoin after one year will join as a PATH Intl. Center Member. Centers that wish to accredit after the change in status need to be a center member in good standing for one year after rejoining before applying for accreditation and must also pay any outstanding accreditation balances from their previous Premier Accredited Center status.

*The Accreditation Subcommittee will be informed of a pattern of grievance submitted to PATH Intl. (although not the specific grievances) as it considers a center reinstatement.
